

Subject: letter of recommendation for CDS:

To whom it may concern,

I am writing this recommendation letter after a request by my student CDS, who is applying for your grant to do a course with you in Ireland. He asked me to provide you with my views about his performance in high school, both academic and personal, and inform you better about who he is.

First, I honestly believe that C is an utterly eligible candidate, as he is hard-working, he is among the best students in our school, he tends to get the highest possible grades and his academic performance is excellent. C is a brilliant student who shows interest in almost all topics (history, culture, civilization) and whenever he finds any difficulties, he never gives up. He knows how to get through and overcome every situation, stressful as it may be, obtaining the best results.

Furthermore, C has great skills for cooperative work and gets on very well with all his classmates. He knows how to assume a given role within a group, organize the group's work and presents the results of each project without any problem, caring about all the details. Also, he is very good when it comes to using learning and communication technologies, and his social abilities are far from being little. With concern to the English lessons, he writes excellent composition, no matter text type, form and topic, where he shows his maturity and know-how.

To put it in a nutshell, C is a very conscientious and able student, one of the best in his class, and I strongly recommend him for the grant on offer. I am persuaded that he will do his best and make the biggest profit of it.

Yours sincerely,

Sergio Díaz Menéndez – sergiodm@educastur.org
Certified Teacher at La Corredoria High-School
Department of Education of the Principality of Asturias (Spain)